A diagram of a 1D lattice with 15 sites. The first, third, fifth, seventh, ninth, and eleventh sites are occupied by green spheres (electrons). The third site is highlighted with a red teardrop shape. A blue arrow points to the right, indicating the direction of electron movement.

A diagram of a polymer chain represented by a horizontal blue line with an arrow at the right end. Along this line are several green circular beads. Below the chain, there are four red teardrop-shaped structures, each connected to the chain by a blue line. These structures are arranged in a periodic, zig-zag pattern along the chain.
